EXPEDITION RISKS & ACTIVITIES

Wharton Leadership Ventures is committed to promoting a positive learning environment and the physical and emotional well-being of our students. We believe that our students are intelligent adults who can make appropriate decisions for themselves. Our commitment to you is to provide you with timely, accurate information about the activities included in each of our Ventures and to meet the highest industry standards for outfitter selection and risk management. You are ultimately responsible for your decisions.

Wharton Leadership Venture Expeditions involve considerable risk. Outdoor activities present hazards. Many of our courses are isolated expeditions with significant variables that can initiate complex emergency situations without clear or simple solutions. Medical assistance and/or evacuation may be days away. We do not – and cannot – guarantee your safety.

DEFINING CHARACTERISTICS OF AN EXPEDITION

- Goal-oriented focus – set goals and strategies as a team and individually
- Critical decision making – the outcome is dependent on the decisions of the leader of the day and the team
- Authentic uncertainty – path/process to goal or outcome is not guaranteed; risk of failure is inherent
- Immersion event – limited opportunities to quit or exit
- Opportunities of stress – from ambiguity, risk of failure, conflict, and unfamiliar roles and environments
